(To Col. Blanchard)

Dear Sir

After seeing you, my business took such a turn as to make it expedient for me to return immediately to Penn. I am thus deprived of the pleasure of meeting with the Juvenile Society as I had promised you. I however wish them all success and prosperity. Will you say to its members that if they will raise $150. to Augment its Library and thus increase its usefulness, I will add $50. to it. Whenever they have so done you are at liberty to draw on me for the above sum.

With great respect
your obt

Dear Sir:.

It gives me pleasure to inclose you $50.-- my subscription to the Library of the Juvenile Society. Your citizens have been prompt. On no very distant day I may invite them to a similar offer. as the Library ought to be further increased. It were a pity to let your ancestral institution fall behind its Juniors' neighbours.

As to any suggestion (which you invite) I would only "suggest" That that you exercise your own judgment, and act like live men, and it will be rightly done.

With great respect
your obt.
Thaddeus Stevens

Sarah Stevens died in Peacham at the age 788, on October 5. Mr. Stevens apparently left Lancaster for Peacham, but could hardly have arrived in time for the funeral. He had been one of the organizers of the Juvenile Society of the Peacham (Caldwell County) Academy. E. S. L.
