

Amphitheater Development 1958-1962

Ground Breaking

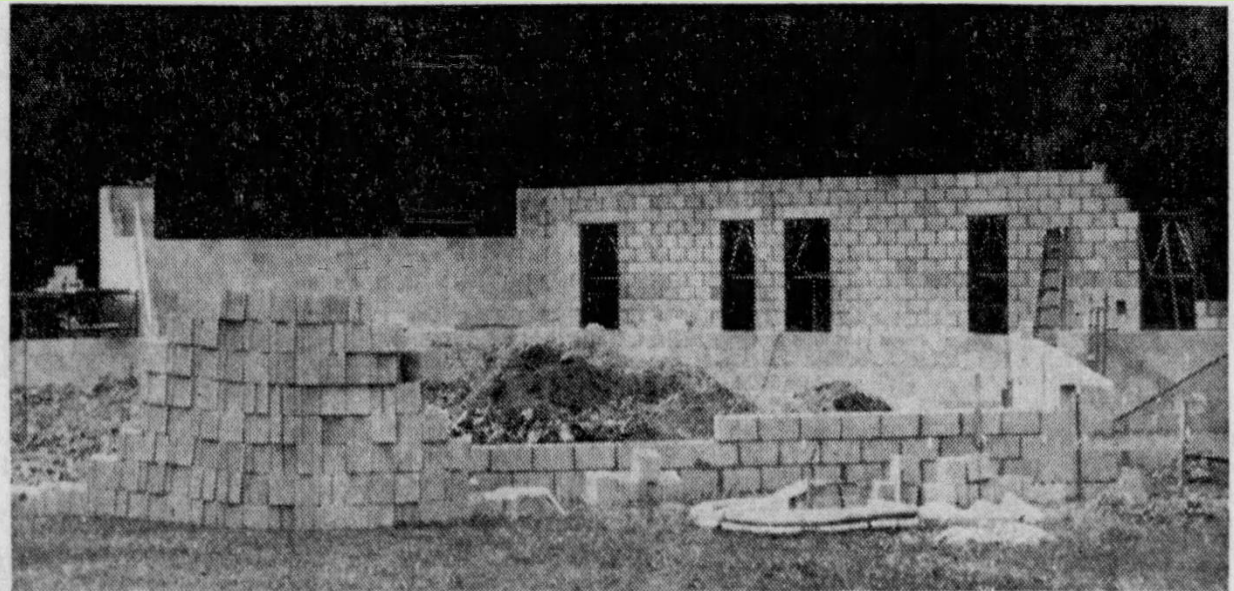

/ ERA—SATURDAY, JUNE 17, 1961

New Era Photo

Elwood H. Miller, president of the Long Park Amphitheater Foundation, right, looks on as he gets help from his 4-year-old twin daughters at ground-breaking ceremonies for the Amphitheater this morning. Cindy watches as Cheryl tries the shovel. Other participants in the ceremony are Mayor Thomas J. Monaghan, center; and C. Theodore Fultineer, Sertoma Club president.

Long Park Amphitheater Above Ground

The new Long Park Amphitheater is now above ground level.

Picture above shows progress of construction on the $65,000 structure in the park.

About half of the funds for construction have been raised through public subscription.

The Lancaster Sertoma Club, prime mover of the project, has underwritten the remaining debt of $35,000. The club plans to repay the loan from the proceeds of its annual chicken barbecue and other civic activities. (Sunday News Photo)

Parking is not a New Concern!

OUR IDEAS

Long Park Parking

The Amphitheater at Long Park is nearing the end of its first season and by any measuring stick it has been a successful one.

Thousands of Lancastrians have been enjoying the relaxing atmosphere of sitting on the grass, under the stars, and listening to all varieties of music at the free concerts.

Like any new venture, it will take a year or two to iron out the bugs. The Amphitheater needs a permanent amplification system. This is being worked on by the Amphitheater Foundation.

And perhaps the greatest need in the years ahead is a definite parking area. This also is under study.

In the meantime, Amphitheater patrons might follow a few suggestions on parking that would alleviate some of the congestion at the entrance to Long Park on concert nights.

Too many people are trying to find parking space right at the park entrance or along the Harrisburg Pike. These spaces, naturally, are filled early.

If motorists would drive through the park—around the upper loop—they would be able to find ample parking places along the roads in that section of the park.

From these spaces, it is just a short walk across a field, or over the hill to the top of the amphitheater bowl. In many cases the distance is shorter than the distance from a parking space on the Harrisburg Pike.

At the next concert try parking in the upper reaches of the park. You will find that it is easier to get a space and there will be less confusion and jamming near the park entrance.

Where to Park for 'Day of Music'

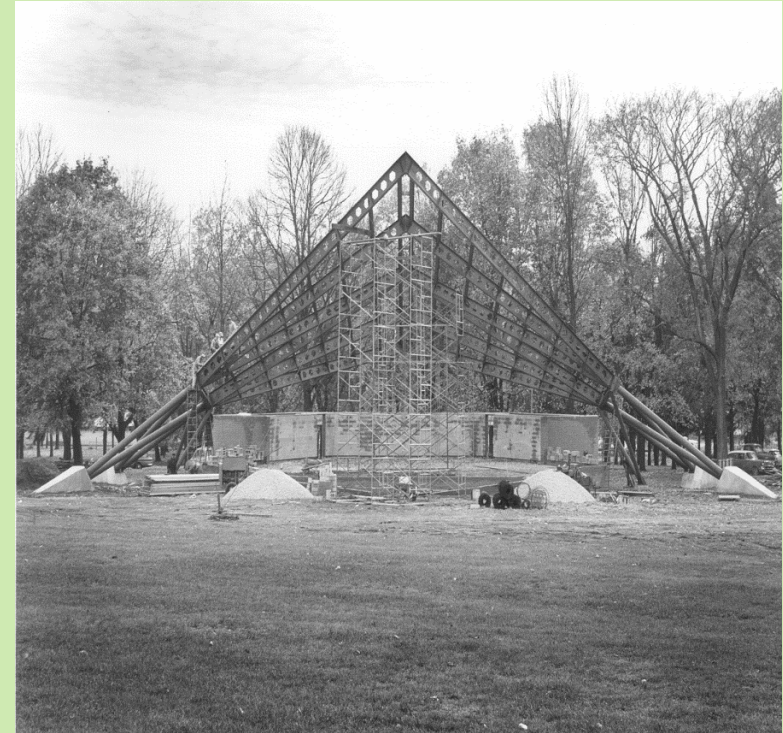

Map shows special parking areas for the "Day of Music" at Long Park Amphitheatre. Free shuttle buses will run every 15 minutes from the lots to the park. The route from the F&M lot to the park is shown.

F&M. In addition, hundreds of cars will be parked inside the park and along its roads. Traffic park roads will be one-way, entering at the m

Fun at the Long's Park

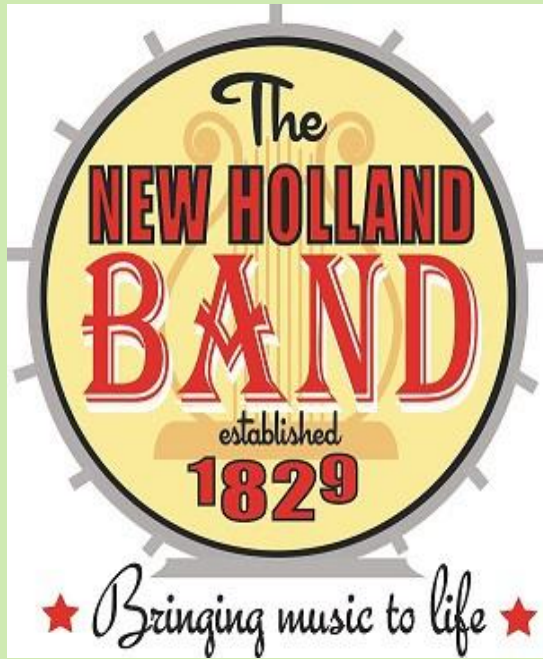

Construction Photos Courtesy of Wickersham Construction

Civitas - Sertoma

Notable Musicians in the 60's

Other Notable Musicians-Concerts in the 60's

Hootenanny	Don Trostle Band
Harmonaires	John Darrenkamp Joan Betty
Sing-Out Lancaster	Barbershop Concert
SPADE- "The Apple Tree"	Youth String Orchestra

Musicians in the 70's

These are four of the performers who will appear at Long Park Saturday night with the Afro-American Dance Group.

Band Leader Count Basie, who will bring his musicians here for the annual "Day of Music" program at Long Park Amphitheater on Sept. 6, is shown above with his trademark — the piano.

Twelve lovely Goldiggers will be featured on stage of the Long Park Amphitheater Sunday evening.

Notable Musicians in the 70's

Pat Boone, his wife, Shirley (at Boone's right), and his four daughters sing "Will the Circle Be Unbroken" during gospel portion of the family's appearance at Day of Music afternoon.

Lionel Hampton is shown above as he led his band at the 1972 inaugural ball in Washington, D.C. Hampton is bringing his Lionel Hampton

Revue to Long Park Amphitheater Sunday evening for a free concert sponsored by the Long Park Amphitheater Foundation.

Emmett Kelly Jr., star of his own circus, is shown above in one of his characteristic clown poses. The circus plays a free performance at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Long Park Amphitheater.

Soul System

Paul Andrew Square Dancers

Custer's Last Band

McCaskey High School Band

Red Skeleton

Mummers

Jimmy Rock-
Lancaster's Elvis
Presley

Dukes of Dixieland

Musicians/Photos in the 80's

Musicians/Photos in the 80's

Other Notable Musicians-Concerts in the 80's

Larry Dixon & the Host Good time Cabaret Band	Andrea McArdle (Annie)
Nashville Tradition	Gary Puckett
Roger Williams	The Four Preps
Lancaster Symphony Orchestra	Bob Croce

Musicians/Photos in the 90's

The Spinners will headline the Day of Music at Long's Park in August. From left are John Edwards, Henry Fambrough, Billy Henderson, Bobbie Smith and Pervis Jackson.

Roberta Flack brought a crowd at Long's Park to its feet again and again Sunday night as she sang her hits of the 1970s and of more recent years.

The members of Get Back! not only work on perfecting the sound and wardrobe of the Beatles, they even mimic the band's little stage quirks and mannerisms.

Photos in the 90's

New Era photos by Richard Hertzler

Steve Yutzy, of Lititz, and Ryan Olah, of Lancaster, "lounging" at Jazz Sunday at Long's Park.

The Fabulous Greaseband will bring their fun-filled performance to the "Dance Party Sunday" at 7 p.m. June 13, at Long's Park.

Intelligencer Journal photo by Barry Zecher

Chuck "Chuckie" Williams adds washboard rhythm for the Zydeco Cha Chas concert at Long's Park Sunday night.

Other Notable Musicians-Concerts in the 90's

Helen Reddy	Mary Wells
New Holland Concert Band	Sweet Adelines
Shakespeare in The Park	The Rhondels
Trout Fishing in America	Gary US Bonds

Musicians/Photos 2000-2010

sunnewsentertainment@lnpnews.com TNT on TNT Area Arts I

Photo by Pat

The Bacon Brothers (Kevin, left, and Michael) will be peppering their colorful repert folk-tinged rock with brotherly banter when they give a free, public concert at 7:30 next Sunday, Aug. 13, at the Long's Park Amphitheater.

Music legend Richie Havens will bring his sound to Long's Park next Sunday.

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band, Sunday, Long's Park.

Shannon Brinkman

Other Notable Musicians-Concerts in the 2000-2010

Livingston Taylor	Rumba Club
Galelic Storm	Red Evises
76ers House Band	Alisa Brown
Los Lobos	Shemika Copeland

Photos in the 2000-2010

South Africa's Ladysmith Black Mambazo, shown performing in February 2000 at Franklin & Marshall College, will play at Long's Park July 9 as part of the Summer Entertainment Series.

Kenny Vance (center) and the Planotones will perform at Long's Park Sunday night.

Riders in the Sky, a quartet that blends country music with comedy, will begin the free entertainment series at Long's Park Amphitheater on June 3. The series continues Sundays through Aug. 26.

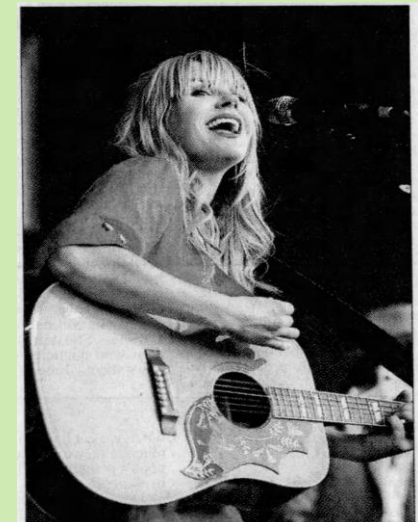

MARTY HEISEY / NEW ER

Lenny Prange (left) and Brian Rosa paint between the acoustic panels of the ceiling at Long's Park Amphitheater.

Richard Herrick / Staff

Shown with Rusty are, from left, Leslie Fordham, Lancaster's public art manager; Amy Marbarger, director of Long's Park Art & Craft Festival; and Deb Berkoski, of Long's Park, who oversaw the installation.

Musicians/Photos 2011-?

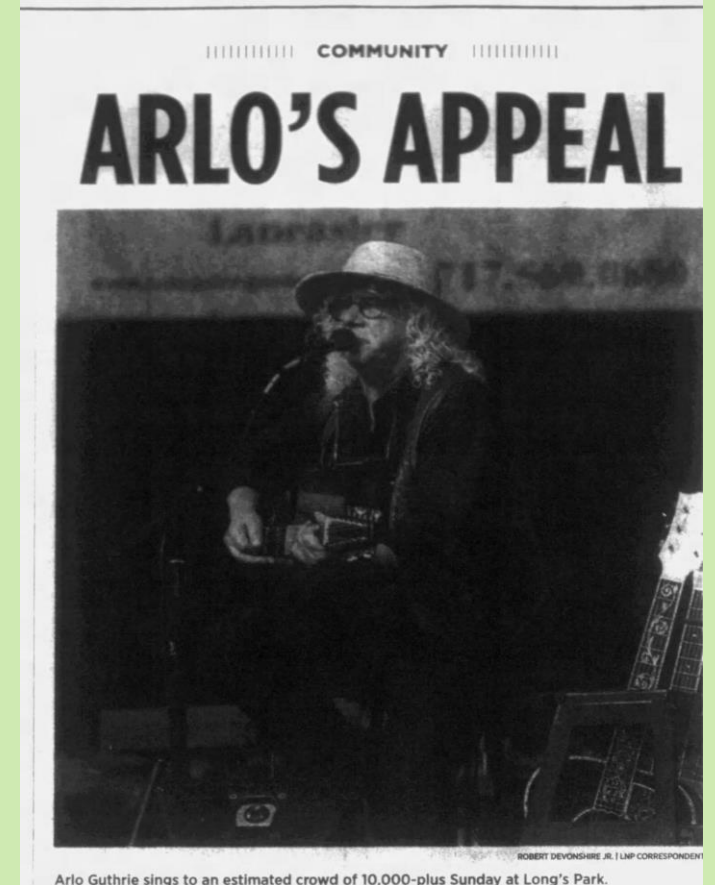

California roots rock band Dawes will perform July 22 at the Long's Park summer music series.

...winning Booker T brings his new ... The summer's concerts get

The March Fourth Marching Band consists of 14 musicians: a bass player, five drummers and eight Arlo Guthrie sings to an estimated crowd of 10,000-plus Sunday at Long's Park.

Other Notable Musicians-Concerts in the 2011-?

The Paul Thorn Band	Booker T & the MGs
The Steel Wheels	Amanda Shaw
Darlingside	Morgan James
Black Violin	Phil Vassar

Art Festival Thank You!

Provides 50% of Sumer Music Series Budget

The NEW ERA RED ROSE

is presented to: Richard and Rick Faulkner

During the past 15 years, the Long's Park Art & Craft Festival has developed into one of the premier events of its kind in the United States. It is consistently rated near the top by national juries.

Two men receive the lion's share of credit for that success. They are Richard Faulkner and his son Rick. They have served as co-directors of the show since 1979.

Beyond creating one of the finest exhibitions of art and crafts in the country, the Faulkners have contributed substantially to the Long's Park Amphitheater Foundation's underwriting of free concerts. Last year's festival raised $250,000.

The Faulkners resigned as co-directors earlier this year in a dispute with the foundation on how much of that $250,000 should go to the foundation and how much to festival promotion. But this year's festival, which opened Friday and runs through Monday, will be conducted following their guidelines.

For their service to the art and crafts community here and elsewhere and for their substantial aid to the Long's Park Amphitheater Foundation, the New Era presents fresh red roses to Richard and Rick Faulkner.

The New Era Rose is presented each Saturday to Lancasterians who accomplish something exceptional on the job, in school or in volunteer activities, or who in other ways represent the best achievements of this community. Nominations may be made by writing to the Editorial Page of the New Era, P.O. Box 1328, Lancaster, Pa. 17608.

Funding Ideas from the Past

A—SATURDAY, SEPT. 5, 1970

New Era Photo

Sunday is annual Fund-Raising Day at the Long Park Amphitheater where seven hours of continuous entertainment will be featured. From left to right, Morris Ressel, John Metzger and James Irwin erect a sign at the park this morning urging donations for expanded programs next Summer.

New E

Officers of the Long Park Amphitheater Foundation are shown preparing for a telethon as part of the foundation's drive for sponsors to aid in financing programming at the amphitheater. Members of the telethon team are, left to right, Tom McCarty, vice president; Gloria Mummau, secretary; Jack Freas, program chairman, and Robert Zeller, president.

Thank You!

James Goudie Photos

Photos of Interest-Not part of the Power Point Unless Selected at er ng lael ee icm-

3
R

in-nd
ng ol-g

nd of nes ff ra-a-

Lionel Hampton is shown above as he led his band at the 1972 inaugural ball in Washington, D.C. Hampton is bringing his Lionel Hampton

Revue to Long Park Amphitheater Sunday evening for a free concert sponsored by the Long Park Amphitheater Foundation.

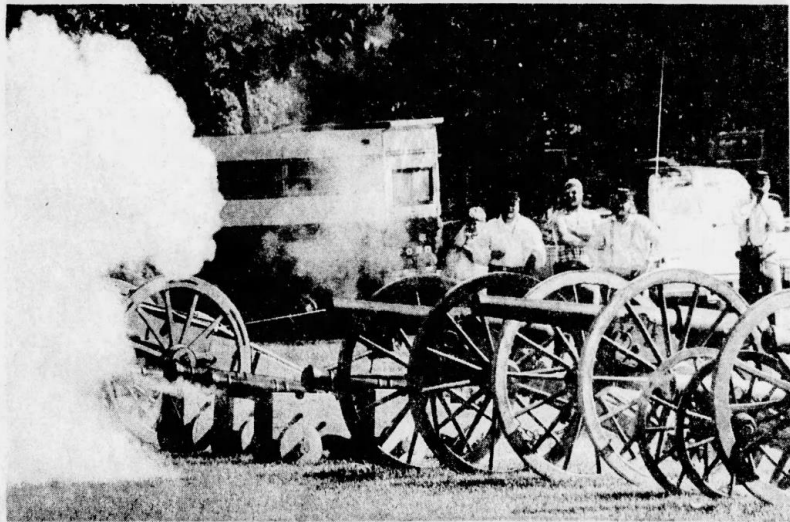

Intelligencer Journal photo by Richard Reinhold

Mummers Perform for Long Park Audience

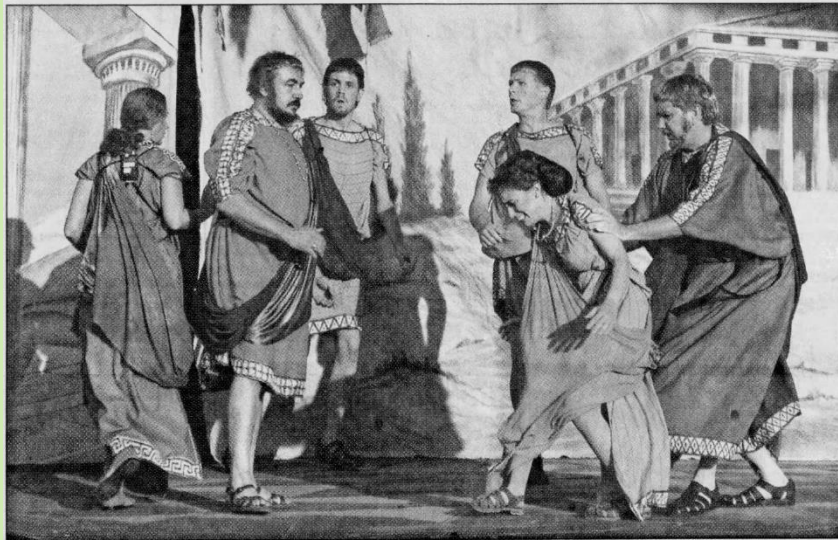

The Durning String Band of Philadelphia presented a concert, including some strutting in their famous plumed costumes, at the Long Park Amphitheater Sunday afternoon. For their marching exhibitions, the area in front of the grandstand was roped off. The evening concert Sunday was presented by the New Holland Band.

While the Lancaster Symphony Orchestra played Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture, local cannon enthusiasts fired 16 cannons.

They Put Charge Into Sunday's Show

Sunday News / Glenn Dietz

From left, Mary Adams-Smith, Gary Smith, Brian Hutchinson, Donna DiVenuto, Don Mitchell and John Hutchinson perform "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Saturday for a Long's Park audience.

C-14 MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1991

GENERAL NEWS

New Era Photo by Keith Baum

Former Supreme Mary Wilson and a bunch of Supreme-wannabes perform at the Long's Park Amphitheatre Sunday evening.

New Era photos by Richard Hertler

Steve Yutzy, of Lititz, and Ryan Olah, of Lancaster, "lounges" at Jazz Sunday at Long's Park.

Voice of experience

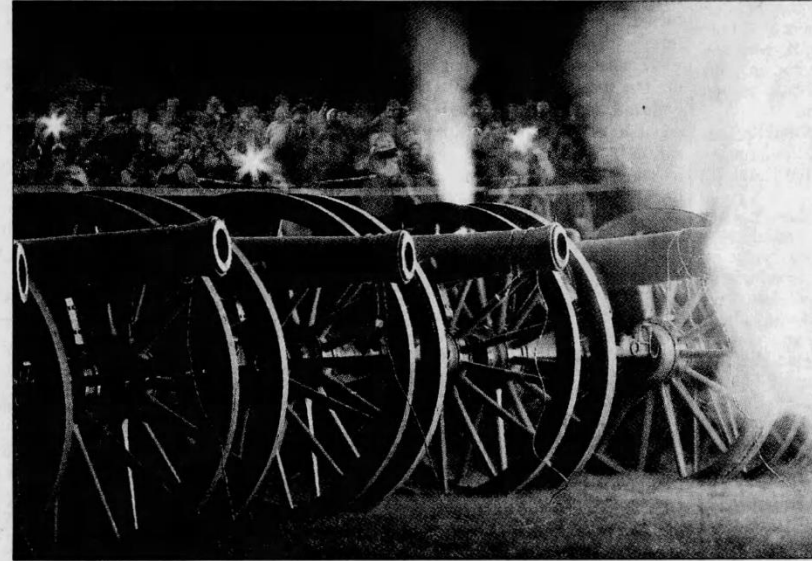

ven through every phase of rock's history – and keeps returnin,

Kenny Vance (center) and the Planotones will perform at Long's Park Sunday night members of the University band will perform at the concert. The band is made up of students from the University of

Long's Park blast

Justin David Graybill / Staff ph

Cannons fire during the performance of the "1812 Overture" at the annual Fourth of July concert at Long's Park. The evening also featured fireworks.

music

DAN GILLESPIE

KRISTA RYERS

A NEW NIGHT OF MUSIC IN THE PARK

3-week Saturday series added to popular Long's Park Sunday shows

JENELLE JANJI
JJANCI@LNPNEWS.COM

Since 1962, Long's Park Summer Music Series has been the king of Sunday night entertainment in Lancaster.

The Long's Park Amphitheater Foundation has largely focused on bringing touring, high-quality acts to town. This year, the foundation decided to test-run a Saturday night series featuring local musicians.

The foundation will host three consecutive Saturday night shows, beginning this week.

Like the Sunday night shows, admission is free. Shows begin at 7:30 p.m., except for the July 16 show, which begins at 7 p.m.

Saturday: J.C. Fetlock and the Love Bomb

J.C. Fetlock will kick off the series with songs from his new album, "Love Bomb." He'll be joined by a slew of local musicians who contributed to or are featured on the album.

So, what exactly is a "love bomb"? Fetlock, born Patrick Thomas Kuhn, describes it as an explosion of positive energy.

"It's probably a form of prayer ... that to me, is what a love bomb is: me loving the world," Fetlock explains.

"The Love Bomb" is Fetlock's first album in 12 years, and his first featuring his own music, despite being an active member of the local music scene for decades. (The other album showcased Fetlock's native American flute playing.)

The album opens with "Angry Rhino," a pirate shanty of sorts, before transitioning into the reggae-inspired "Larrycurlmoe." No two songs sound alike — a product of Fetlock's varied musical taste. For him, incorporating flute into a song of nearly any genre is just as natural as using his guitar or voice.

KRISTA RYERS

Clockwise from upper left: J.C. Fetlock, Stu Huggens, Amy Banks and Wild Hymns.

"That's the way I am," Fetlock says. "I love Mozart, Zappa, Hendrix and everything in between."

When Fetlock signed up to join the school band when he was in fourth grade, he was told that there were already too many students playing every instrument he requested.

What the band needed was more flute players.

"I didn't complain," Fetlock says. "I was just glad to have an instrument."

On "Love Bomb," Fetlock sings and plays flute, pan flute, mandolin and

IF YOU GO

Saturday Series at Long's Park

● Where: Long's Park Amphitheater, Route 30 & Harrisburg Pike.

● When: July 9 and 23 at 7:30 p.m., July 16 at 7 p.m.

● Cost: Free.

● More info: longspark.org.

acoustic guitar. He paid for most of the album himself, but raised $2,125 through a Kickstarter crowdfunding campaign for the project.

CONTINUED, page 8

OP-ED/LETTERS

FRIDAY, JULY 8, 2016 A19

RICHARD HERTZLER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

A crowd fills Long's Park for the annual patriotic concert Sunday evening.