STONE COMPANY.

AVONDALE, CHESTER COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.

Avondale Stone used as rock-faced broken range, range or rubble, makes a most desirable building stone, as its appearance is very attractive, being of light cheerful colors, ranging as desired from a pure white to a light brownish-gray. We also get out stone in shapes to lay on its bed, when a most beautiful effect is produced by the way the different tints are seen to blend and run into each other. This stone contains but a mere trace of oxide of iron (discoloring matter) and therefore always retains its original color. This is quite a unique feature and should be given full consideration in selecting a building stone.
